

SIMPLY ADVANCED STUDIO

YOUR OWN INHOUSE STREAMING STUDIO

In this new virtual economy, many companies from various industries communicate via online video. For 50, 150 to an infinite number of recipients of their message. Internally and externally. For employees, customers and partners. Often a professional studio outside the office is used for this. But have you ever thought about communicating on site from your own studio?

AVEX brings this within reach with the Inhouse streaming studio. The communication of your message from your own professional studio. Suitable for simple settings for a quick one on one interview, as well as larger settings such as a full talk show. Quick and efficient. Entirely dependent on your message, the frequency of the number of broadcasts and of course the space. The concept is simple, flexible and modular and is completely adapted to your wishes.

THE CONCEPT

The Inhouse streaming studio concept has a basic installation with one or two cameras permanently installed, ideally suited for a large part of the broadcasts with interviews for one or two people. The basic setting with a single camera is extremely suitable for "one touch" operation. The user starts the broadcast with one push of a button from a touch panel. A short user training after installation ensures that the operation by the users themselves runs smoothly.

In case of a broadcast with more guests in the studio, we can expand your set for this occasion with temporary equipment that we connect to your basic installation. The installed infrastructure has already been set up for this, so that an expansion on site can be realized quickly. This way you always have the most ideal set at the office. In case of an elaborate setting, the broadcast is also supported by our professional AVEX studio technicians. Flexibility ensures multifunctionality.

A composite inhouse streaming studio installation consists of carefully selected high quality components. Also in the basic setting. Every broadcast is of high quality as standard.

MAXIMUM FLEXIBILITY

Only a fixed monthly rate is charged for the basic facilities. As needed, only extra equipment and added services are provided at a fixed rate per broadcast. The basic setting is specifically designed for these temporary expansion options at the same desired quality level.

As indicated, the entire studio facilities are offered as a service.

This applies to both the basic setting and temporary extensions.

AVEX not only provides control for more complex broadcasts, but is also fully responsible for the correct operation of the entire installation. Any defective equipment is immediately replaced so that it can always be available. If desired or necessary, support is also provided for a simple broadcast.

User training is also part of the service.

Hereby advantages at a glance:

- immediately deployable
- fully customize to your own wishes and corporate identity
- no extra travel time
- Operational 24 hours a day
- No external costs for location or studio rental
